

Shadowtown: Die A Million Deaths (excerpt)

This is an excerpt from the third book in the Shadowtown Series. The first two books are Recurring Nightmares and Clutch. There is an excerpt of Clutch available for .99 cents. The full version of this book will be uploaded in due time. Bassicus Crosswaters is eighteenish and attends high school. He works at a local grocery store and is a popular high school basketball player. His nickname is Bass and his girlfriends name is Tamelle. Or at least . . . his original girlfriend - girlfriend # 1 - is named Tamelle. Girlfriend Number #2 is named Lexi. And this is one of Bass problems: he has too many girlfriends. As the story progresses, Bass comes into more and more problems and they only get worse and worse. He goes out on a date with Tamelle and something terrible happens to her . . . Bass is involved, but doesnt take responsibility . . . later, with Tamelle out of the picture, he continues to date Lexi as if nothing terrible ever happened . . . More about the story . . . While the primary characters are teenagers, the adults play an important part in the story. These would be: Bass mother (Dailene); his father (Stanton); Tamelles parents; and the police officers. In other words, the adults are not just background props, as they tend to be in other teen novels. The characters in the story are African-American, as with the other Shadowtown stories. My goal is to create stories that feature African-Americans and are of genres that people usually dont associate with this particular ethnic group, such as sci fi fantasy, horror, and suspense.
