

La-bas

La-Bas deals with the subject of Satanism in contemporary France, and the novel stirred a certain amount of controversy on its first appearance. It is the first of Huysmans books to feature the character Durtal who would go on to be the protagonist of all of Huysmans subsequent novel. Published in 1891, LA-BAS is Huysmans best-selling novel; its success was due, in part, to its sensational contents. It is in this novel that Huysmans character, Durtal, is introduced for the first time. This character is thought to be a semi-autobiographical depiction of the author and is used in his next three books which chart Durtals (and Huysmans) search for religious truths and his ultimate conversion to Roman Catholicism. The journey begins with the viewing of an extremely realistic painting: In Germany, before a Crucifixion by Matthaeus Grunewald, he had found what he was seeking.
