

Noose

The past is an inescapable noose around a young mans neck, in this blackly comic, satirical novel from renowned crime writer Bill James Britain, 1956. A young actress seemingly tries to commit suicide over a tangled love affair, but is taken to hospital and her life saved. The story is just the sort of thing that journalist Ian Charteris likes to cover: a poignant mix of near tragedy, possible thwarted romance, and glamour, needing sensitive but of course dramatic treatment. It should be a routine assignment, a welcome assignment. It would be, if it wasnt for the identity of the young woman. She may just may be Ians sister. The unwelcome reminder of the past drags Ian back into memories of places and events hed rather forget. As far as Ian is concerned, the past is a foreign country. And not just foreign. Fundamentally and cantankerously hostile. Vengeful, war-torn, dangerous. It is impossible to escape the past; the noose is already around Ians neck, and every step he takes it tightens . . . And this is not the only noose.
