Aliyah believes that she has the perfect husband and the perfect life because by every social standard, she does. But she isn't happy. Her deepest desires and needs are not being met. She thinks that a good woman should sacrifice these things for the sake of her marriage but she quickly learns, sometimes it is impossible to be anything other than what you are. When she meets Marcellus James, she thinks she's found the love of her life. They share a natural rhythm, a oneness that she doesn't share with her husband Jamal. Even as she begins to question her love for Jamal, Aliyah is determined to keep her marriage and family intact. She does everything within her power to overlook her desire for Marcellus, which she is sure, is mutual. She wants to do the right thing. What she doesn't realize is that sometimes the right thing seems like the wrong thing. Aliyah is faced with a choice that will change the course of her life.
